Segmentation fault at DL::TestDL#test_call_double on x64 Windows 8

12/02/2012 12:22 PM - phasis68 (Heesob Park)

Status:	Closed	Backport:
Priority:	Normal
Assignee:	tenderlovmaking (Aaron Patterson)
Target version:
ruby -v:	ruby 2.0.0dev (2012-12-02 trunk 38132) [x64-mswin64_110]

Description

I can see the following segmentation fault with trunk build with x64 VC 2012 on Windows 8.

C:\work\snapshot-ms64>nmake test-all TESTS="dl/test_dl2.rb"

The segment fault is due to the wrong pack type "l!" on 64bit Windows.

Here is a patch:

Just an issue of test.

park-san can you reproduce this still?

#6 - 08/15/2013 11:42 PM - phasis68 (Heesob Park)

Yes, of course. I can reproduce it with snapshot still.
Why you ignore my patch?

BTW, I do not want to be called as -san because I am not a Japanese.

#7 - 08/16/2013 01:53 AM - zzak (zzak _)

The patch seems good, but I cannot test without a windows env.

Oh, sorry! Please forgive my ignorance.

I am curious why my simple and obvious patch not accepted over 1 year.

phasis68

Thank you your nudge.

tenderlove

Can you handle this until release of 2.1.0?

#10 - 12/06/2013 05:46 PM - vo.x (Vit Ondruch)

This seems to be related to #6592, although I have not experienced segfaults as you.

#11 - 12/13/2013 12:03 AM - zzak (zzak _)

I don't see the segfault on `rubyci.org[1]` either, can anyone reproduce this?

rubyci.org platform is Windows 7.

You can see the segfault on 64 bit Windows 8.x with x64 VC++ 2012 or 2013 compiler.

It seems that nobody here but me care for Ruby on Windows 8.

#14 - 12/13/2013 11:19 AM - zzak (zzak _)

Can we setup a build for that? Or perhaps we can set it up on travis?

#15 - 12/13/2013 12:26 PM - phasis68 (Heesob Park)

Why you are reluctant to apply my patch?

In Windows 7, it is a latent bug.

It is not causing any incompatibility but only affects Windows 64 bit.

Almost platforms except Windows 64 bit, `DL::PackInfo::PACK_MAP[DL::TYPE_VOIDP]` is `"!"`

C:\Users\phasis>ruby -v
ruby 2.0.0p353 (2013-11-22) [i386-mingw32]
```

```
C:\Users\phasis>irb
DL is deprecated, please use Fiddle
irb(main):001:0> require 'dl/pack'
=> true
irb(main):002:0> DL::PackInfo::PACK_MAP[DL::TYPE_VOIDP]
=> "!"
```

On Windows 64 bit, `DL::PackInfo::PACK_MAP[DL::TYPE_VOIDP]` is `"q"`

C:\Users\phasis>ruby -v
ruby 2.0.0p247 (2013-06-27) [x64-mingw32]
```

```
C:\Users\phasis>irb
DL is deprecated, please use Fiddle
irb(main):001:0> require 'dl/pack'
=> true
irb(main):002:0> DL::PackInfo::PACK_MAP[DL::TYPE_VOIDP]
=> "q"

I understand you. But nobody can test all the platforms.
I can test it on Windows 8.
Besides, this is not a ruby source code, but a test code.

I already waited a year without this patch and can wait for one more year.

@heesob Could you reupload your patch?

It seems the RTE migration ate your old patch :(

I uploaded the patch for the trunk.

#21 - 12/18/2014 05:20 PM - tenderlovmaking (Aaron Patterson)

DL is removed from trunk. Should we still apply this to 2.1 and older?
