Ruby - Bug #8778

lib/test/ documentation is too weak

Description

sora-san when you are well-fed and well-rested: what do you propose for lib/test/ documentation?

I suggest 'nodoc' the majority of it adding a note about 'compatibility layer' to top-level module.

However, I realize there may be some test-unit users still.

I am willing to document existing functionality of lib/test/ if 'nodoc' is rejected.

Using RDoc: I have generated a coverage report of current lib/test/: https://gist.github.com/zzak/6208031

- lib/test/: [DOC] Document Test::Unit, hide most submodules and classes from rdoc. Since lib/test is only present as a compatibility layer with the legacy test suite many test/unit users will be using minitest or the test/unit gem instead. It is recommended to use one of these alternatives for writing new tests.

Sorry for late reply,

This is okay for me, if there is no objection.

Does anyone have objection for this?
