History

#1 - 05/17/2011 04:34 AM - drbrain (Eric Hodel)

Can you separate documentation from whitespace diffs (and create a new issue)?

#2 - 05/17/2011 05:07 AM - steveklabnik (Steve Klabnik)

Are whitespace-fixing diffs acceptable? If there's a standard of two spaces, I'll go ahead and make a big patch that just fixes all the whitespace.

#3 - 05/17/2011 07:04 AM - drbrain (Eric Hodel)

There has been a push to remove trailing whitespace from the repository, nobu performs periodic cleanup commits. I assume a tab -> spaces for .rb files cleanup would also be acceptable but I don't know, an email to ruby-core@ruby-lang.org would clarify this.

attached is the patch updated with no whitespace correction.

Hello,

I guess that `Net::FTP#send_type_command` is not expected to be used directly by user, and should be stated clearly.
Or please use `:nodoc:`.
The same goes for other private method in `Net::FTP` (`sanitize`, `putline`, ...)

See #4694.
